A Message To Graduates

All over the United States high school graduates and college graduates are entering the stage of life—at a time when business opportunities are plentiful.

Although young graduates are not too often prone to take freely-offered advice, we will nevertheless offer a few points, as a general guide, which we believe might be helpful to those leaving school at this time.

The first thing worth mentioning is that every graduate, or even those who did not graduate, can succeed in life. We live in a country where success can be achieved as a result of sustained effort, or determination. One does not have to be a genius, brilliant, or even smart to achieve this success.

Fortunately, in the United States we have such plentiful opportunities that a determination to succeed, and a willingness to work, will produce very gratifying results.

Perhaps the most important single piece of advice to be given to graduates or those entering the business world at this time is the suggestion that they develop an individual Christian philosophy. This means that each person develop a set of principles and a philosophy by which he will try to live his life. Naturally, he will sometimes fail, but the point is that he will be attempting to live a life in harmony with certain basic guidelines.

Another suggestion is for youngsters today to resist the temptation to over-emphasize the importance of money. The great values of life, and of time, are not dependent upon financial means.

These things—a life patterned on the Christian philosophy of Jesus, one in which hard and sustained work is respected, one in which money is not worshipped as a god, and in which help is extended to our fellow men, and evil gossip resisted, and up to a life of good citizenship, and a contribution to one's community, city and state.

WATER

Water is such a part of our lives that most of us seldom give it a second thought.

This is especially true here in Georgia, where our climate usually provides ample rainfall. About the only time we are ever impressed with the importance of water is when watering the lawn runs the water bill up or the pump breaks down.

As human beings, we are irrevocably linked to water. It is as necessary to the economy of the state and nation as it is to the biological process of the human body. The farmer knows this; so does the industrialist looking for a plant site.

One only has to look at the patterns of human settlement to see how closely man's destiny is tied up with water. Man has always built his communities near water that would sustain life, provide moisture for growing food and give him means of transportation. In more recent times he has sought out water for the additional needs of his industrial plants and to generate electrical power.

God provided enough water to meet our needs, but by mismanagement we are imperiling this resource. The cycle of water being evaporated to return to the form of rain and the surplus finally returning through ever enlarging streams to the sea worked perfectly before man began changing the face of the earth and placing new demands on the available water supply. Too, when the earth was still covered with its natural vegetation, the rainfall caused no harm to the soil.

As we change the earth to meet our demands we can not expect the water supply to continue to meet our demands in its without management.

Why An Editor Went Fishing

An Oregon editor recently wrote the editor of a Kansas weekly newspaper asking why he was no longer receiving that paper in exchange.

The reply: "We suspended publication several months ago. Its demise was brought on by labor trouble, the More Abundant Life, the New Thought, the economy of plenty, Marxian liberalism, positive idealism and the New Frontier handouts which I found even more irksome than the Modern Republican straightjacket. I managed to save enough through the years to keep away from the poor farm so I shut down and went fishing."

That tells a long and tangled story -- with admirable brevity and point!

The schedule is as follows: Monday, June 18, to Friday, June 22; Monday, June 25, to Friday, June 29; Monday, July 2, to Saturday, July 7.

For further information contact Robert Overstreet at P.O. 43871 or P.O. 43125.

Save Whiskey Creek!

Place names are a profound part of a nation's past. They vitalize its history. Given for the most part, by pioneers, they provide color, drama, life, to all of a country's varied regions.

But, sad to relate, in recent years there have been many efforts, some successful, to abandon the old, rude place-names in an apparent effort to "pretty" things up. The new names have been perfectly described by the late Lewis A. McArthur, who wrote a classic history of Oregon place-names, as "fruitless expressions of today."

Take, for example, a strong stomach, just two examples. Once there was an Oregon road called

Dinner Honors Four Retiring G.S.C. Faculty Members

Tuesday evening the members of the Faculty of Georgia Southern College were hosts at a delightful dinner party celebrating four very fine teachers who are retiring after the first summer session. They were, Mrs. J. E. Guadalupe, with twenty-five years tenure; Miss Bertha Freeman with twenty-one years; Miss Marjorie Crouch, 16 years; and Miss Ella Johnson with 15. Miss Crouch will be the only teacher to leave at the close of the regular session. She will be to Ocala and later to Washington, D. C. to study art.

The date selected for the dinner was planned that the entire faculty with their wives could attend, before the end of the regular session.

The scene of the dinner was the P. I. Williams Dining Hall.

The long tables held exquisite arrangements of pale yellow gladioli. A delicious four course dinner was served.

Mr. R. L. Winburn was Master of Ceremonies and made the presentation of gifts to the honorees.

Dr. Zack Henderson made an excellent speech in praise and appreciation of the four loyal teachers. Each responded with brief talks.

The Committee having the responsibility of choosing and purchasing the gifts, called Mrs. Guadalupe's daughter, Genevieve (Mrs. Henry Chenault) and asked for suggestions. Genevieve told them at one time she heard her mother wish for a tray, one which would do justice to the beautiful silver service she had brought her from England. The elegant large oval tray. A lady Hamilton Watch was the gift to Miss Freeman, four silver goblets to Miss Ella Johnson and to Miss Marjorie Crouch, about six serving pieces in her chosen pattern of silver, Chantilly.

Over one hundred friends attended this fitting affair.

The prospective bridegroom was graduated from the High School Division of Georgia Military College and received a degree from the College Department. He received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Recreation for Georgia Southern College, and received his commission in the United States Marine Corps upon graduation. Recently he has completed

Marine Corps Officers Basic School at Quantico, Virginia, and is presently stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The wedding will be an event of August 5, at the First Methodist Church of Statesboro. After their marriage the couple will make their home at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

This was a time of assembling together many friends of Mr. Burchhalter, for reminiscing.
